

Want to keep your cat happy? There's an app for that.

May 4, 2017 (Hamilton, ON) -- Cat Healthy now available on Android and iOS.

The free app stores and tracks your cat's important milestones, weight, key dates, veterinary records, even photos to aid in providing great care for your cat. This is an important tool as it is estimated approximately only 55 percent of cats get regular medical care compared to 85 percent of dogs in Canada.

"The goal of the app is to promote better care by actively engaging cat parents with the needs of their cats. The app provides real-time tips and reminders, acts as a health journal, and is an educational resource," says Dr. Liz O'Brien, DVM, DABVP and co-founder of Cat Healthy.

The Cat Healthy app creates a timeline and calendar with real-time alerts and notifications to the cat owner. The user has the ability to add content about their cat's behaviour, such as notes and photography. It is also the only pet app regularly reviewed and supported by every board certified feline specialist in Canada.

"We all love our cats, but they are masters of disguise, so we often misinterpret their behaviours and aren't truly aware of what they need to stay happy and healthy," says Susan Groeneveld, co-founder of Cat Healthy.

"The app is a cat-centric tool that mirrors the life of your cat. For example, it delineates content by age as a cat's care differs greatly based on their stage in life," says Dr. O'Brien.

Cat Healthy was recently awarded the "Best in Show" for a non-profit at the North American Veterinary Community awards event and internationally recognized as a leader in cat care with licensing agreements for use in Japan.
